

Piano Tributes and Transcriptions from Mozart to Radiohead

What do Mozart, Chopin, Gershwin and Radiohead have in common? Their music is among the many works that have been covered by other composers throughout history. While you might associate 'covers' with popular mainstream music, composers have been playing tribute to one another for hundreds of years in the form of transcriptions, variations, and homages. Join pianist Renee Huynh for an evening of piano covers that span more than 300 years. (www.reenehuynh.com)
